Selling Timber?

Most woodland owners will sell trees out of their woods only once in their lifetime - maybe twice! Make sure that the choice you make is good for you and the woods, both today and into the future.

This evening workshop will cover topics on how to best approach the selling of trees to meet your goals and objectives. We will cover marketing options and best management practices for the sale. The class will also include a session on timber taxes to make sure you understand the tax implications of a sale.
